FOR THE FAIR SEX

Some New Styles and Shades for the Dear Creatures

IN NOVEL COATS AND JACKETS

Some Pretty Coiffares Described. Bons, Capes and Collarcttes-The Proper Care of Silver-A Home-Made Chest-Heroes and Beroines at Home-The Well-bred Girl.

Many of the imported coats may be considered a joy forever as to comfort, but there is some doubt as to their being things of beauty to the artistic eye. Here is a back view of a soft fur-lined garment which answers as an illustra tion. The coat is made of brown-faced cloth, with one of the fashionable collars and a flaring skirt. The corset offect plainly outlined about the waist is accomplished by black silk braid. The collar needs no word of explanation. Its picture tells the story. The redeeming feature of the coat is that it is lined with chinchilla and is warm and comfortable. The fur which assists in its trimming is mink. This stylish jacket has a box pleat down the center of the back, stitched down the center of the back, stitched that to a little below the waist, where the pleats hang loose. To the pleats are joined the added basques, which are a feature of this geason's jackets. The model is ornamented in front with rows of braid and buttons, and two rows of braid trim the full basque of the coat.

The new fall comes may reflect some

The new fall gowns may reflect some whathe designs of last summer, and the careful observer can possibly trace the original of a felt hat to a shape in straw, but there is no denying the fact that the jackets and long clocks are that the jackets and long cloaks are distinctly new. They are novelties the like of which has never been seen before. There is a graceful long coat, for instance, to slip on when the gown beneath is better not visible. It is made of smooth, brown cloth, gathered in such fullness at the back that it falls in folds. The triple shoulder cape is trimmed with a curious braid of black and silver, and surmounted with the and silver, and surmounted with the new ruche collar, lined with satin. The covering for the arm is not exactly a sleeve. It is more a full cape, laid in folds which hang in a way to show plainly its satin lining. The garment is delightfully graceful and comfortable. Coat in blacksatin, lined with ermine, which is turned back in front as revers. Full sleeves falling over the hands: they are confined at the wrists with a band of ermine, and similar fur edge them. The long basque is full at the

The illustration shows a charming to jacket made of pale blue cashmere and having a ruffle and yest of a figured silk, with a sash of cashmere.

HAIRDRESSING FOR THE SEASON Some New and Pretty Confures and How to Produce Them.

Hair dressed half high, bodice with jacket.-The coiffure here shown has some similarity to the "Greek," and is is only suitable for regular features. The curls on the forehead are first parted off, combed downward and curved, the slightly waved hair then taken up, tied on the top of the head, and arranged in a knot. The bunch of curls in the mida knot. The bunch of curls in the mid-dle of the latter is made of the ends of the strands which give the knot, or false curls can be taken. The short jacket is cut of a very fashionable shape jacket is cut of a very fashionable shape with long sloping shoulders.

Hair Dressed with Upright Bow—The front hair of this coillure is combed back over a pad and twisted on the top of the head together with the back hair into a small knot. Jet diadem with bow in Alsace style.

Hair Dressed Low, Low-Necked Bodice—Thick, curly hair is required for this style of hair-dressing. The hair is combed up, slipped lightly toward the front on the top of the head and tied low at the back, where it is twisted into a single knot. The bodice illustrated is made in the newest fashion, the stuff made in the newest fashion, the stuff being drawn in folds in the width, and the sleeves composed of three frills of Valenciennes lace.

Lovable Girls.

New York Recorder. Girls that are fair on the hearthstone, And pleasant when nobody sees; Kind and sweet to their own folk, Ready and auxious to please.

The girls that are wanted are wise girls, That drive with a smile or a soft wo.
The wrath of the household away.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Whom fashion can never deceive: Who can follow whatever is pretty, And dare what is slily to leave.

The girls that are wanted are careful girls, Who count what a thing will cost; Who use with prudent, generous hand, But see that nothing is lost.

The gir's that are wanted are girls with hearts; They are wanted for mothers and wives; Wanted to cradle in loving arms. The strongest and frailest or lives.

The clever, the witty, the brilliant girl There are very few understand: There are very few understand: But O! for the wise, loving, home girls, There's a constant and steady demand

Boa, Capes and Collarottes. The moire Persian lamb, says the New York Times, finds especial favor

New York Times, finds especial favor this season because of the revived approval of moire silk. A black satin coat has a collarette of moire Persian, with shoulder pieces of jet-spangled net. Bands of Persian lamb, edged with jot gimp, are on cloth capes.

Fur collarettes on cloth coats and capes are among the new ideas. Usually, when the garment has a fur collarette, it also is bordered with fur. A cape of heavy brown Ottoman cloth has bordering and collarette of mink. Ottoman cloth is claiming considerable toman cloth is claiming considerable toman cloth is claiming considerable attention, and in golden brown is well worth considering. In this shade it is made up in capes and coats that are as handsome as any shown. In light colors it is used for evening wraps.

The gored collaratte is on fur garments, and, instead of the insertion, or gimp, which joins or covers the seams on collarattes of other material, the fur seams are joined by narrow strips of on collaration of the material, use fat-seams are joined by narrow strips of contrasting fur. A mink cape has the seams of the gored collaratte joined by the darker Hudson Bay sable, and a narrow roll of the sable edges the cape.

THE CARE OF SILVER.

How to Clean the Dining Room and the Boudelr Appointments

Do not rub silverware with soap Even good kitchen soap is coarse to be used on any scratchable stuff. Instead dissolve sonp in boiling water and wash the silver in the suds. Rinse in clear hot water, dry and rub with chamois, When silver-cleaning day comes the silver should be washed and dried as above. Then pure whiting, mixed with alcohol, should be applied with a soft rag, rubbed off with another, brushed to remove the dust from the chasing, potished with chamois and set away to delight the eyes of the owner with its glitter.

In these days when hat pins, hair pins, calendar holders, brushes, combs and mirrors are so largely made of sil-ver, a bed room silver-cleaning formula is as necessary as a dining room one. Prepared chalk, which is usually in the bed room; alcohol or ammonia, which also have places on the toilet table; a flanuel rag, a brush and a piece of chamois are the necessary apparatus. A little paste of ammonia and alcohol and chalk, applied with flannel, allowed to dry and brushed out, will make even the heavily chased bit of silver bright, and the chamois will give the necessary glitter.-New York World,

A HOME-MADE CHEST.

It Was a Packing Box, but it is Popularly Belleved to be an Heirloon

It was in its first condition a packingbox. It was about three feet long and rather broad, but quite shallow. It was rather an aristocratic packing-box, being dove-tailed instead of merely nailed at the joinings.

The woman into whose hands it fell had an inspiration. The cover was knocked off and a carpenter fitted a cover on with hinges. Then she painted it black on the outside and white on the inside. When she had obtained the desired shade of inkiness she varnished the box. The hinges on the cover she gilded. A pair of brass handles were added to the sides, and an ornamental brass lock adorned the front. The chest reposed in a bedroom window and held madam's party dress skirts without creasing them. On top she put a fee curios-looking cushions—a duli red one, an old blue one, and one with bands of oriental embroidery. And the popular impression is that the quaint-looking chest is either an heirloom or a treasure from an antique shop.

THE WELL-BRED GIRL,

Some of the Things Which She of Good

All have their ideas of what constitutes good breeding, and they differ but Some allow more latitude than others, but agree in the main. A lady writing to a popular family paper on this subject says of the well-bred girl that she thanks the man who gives her a seat in a tram car, and does it in a quiet and not in an effusive way.

The fact that to-day was to a certain extent regarded as the beginning of the end of the contest at Washington between the silver and antistiver forces in the senate, had more than a little to do with the course of the speculation on the stock exchange. In certain cliques the continuous session experiment was regarded as of doubtful efficacy, and this feeling was reflected in a solling movement, which brought considerable long stock, and the bears were quite ready to take advantage of the situation and make a drive all along the lipe. London was in the market, too, as a beller, but not to any very large extent. A notable exception to the general depression was the trading in whisky, which was decidedly buoyant and led in the transactions. The starting up of all the trad distilleries, and the prospective advance in the spirit tax, helped the buil movement in the spirit tax, helped the built movem Sales of stocks were 145,000.

Chicago, Oct. II.—A trip hammer blow was given the grain markets into in the session to-day, demolishing any bullishness resulting from the koverament report. The upsetting force came when Brodirect's reported an increase in the visible supply for both coasts at 3.478.00 bushels, and the world's visible increase 3.074,000 bushels, The receipts of wheat in the north-west were quite large, the export clearances were small.
